SAMANTA KRISHNAPILLAI

Samanta Krishnapillai is a second year Master of Health Information Science Student at Western University. After graduating with a Bachelor of Health Science from Western University, Samanta knew she wanted to pursue graduate research in health equity from a systems and sustainability focus. Currently she is working under the supervision of Dr. Nadine Wathen to examine the contextual factors supporting the implementation of TVIC and the EQUIP Healthcare at the London Intercommunity Health Centre. In her free time, Samanta continues to be a champion of diversity and inclusion when working on projects in the community. After completing her Masters, Samanta hopes to work in health sector in Interdisciplinary teams to bring equitable and sustainable health solutions to the problems impacting our most marginalized populations.
