STEPHANIE GARIES

Stephanie Garies is in her last year as a PhD candidate in Epidemiology at the University of Calgary. She has a Master in Public Health (MPH) from the University of Warwick in the United Kingdom. She is currently the assistant director for the Southern Alberta Primary Care Research Network, which hosts a regional component of the Canadian Primary Care Sentinel Surveillance Network (CPCSSN), a national database consisting of de-identified patient information extracted from electronic medical records (EMR) in primary care settings across the country. Her research interests include health data integration (combining EMR and administrative databases), EMR data quality, and methods for utilizing EMR data for primary health care research.
